"In 1991, when Veikko Latvala was 50, he saw a green-brown and silver-edged light wheel spinning at a sluggish pace outside a tree trunk and heard three knocks, and the voice said, "Father Son Holy Spirit." Since then, Veikko Latvala has had the grace to know things in a supernatural way.

In the early 2000s, God unexpectedly told him to take a pen in his hand to start writing what he was told. It was then that the contents of the book *The Holy Revelations of Jesus, the Coming of Life* were dictated. "It was very strange, because if the phone rang and I answered it, or if it had been many days of other chores, dictation began just about where it had broken," Latvala recalls his experiences. "Every word had to be written exactly as it was given.

In November 2008, the book of *Holy Revelation* was published. God even ordained the color of the book cover. At the same time, God informed Veikko Latvala that He was still dictating a book of poetry, which is due to be published in spring 2009. This was also the case.

Veikko Latvala considers the book *Holy Wisdom, Poetic Thoughts* even more valuable than the previous book, because the poem contains a lot of important advice for a happier life and is therefore necessary for modern people who do not feel real happiness and love.

"Lack of love is the cause of human suffering. Goodness, or good will for other people, is lost. That is why our God wants to awaken people to live in Truth and be gentle with fellow human beings," says Veikko Latvala.

God has dictated the book of Sacred Revelation because people would not believe in false beliefs about Jesus and the lives of his family. "It has been claimed that Jesus had brothers and sisters, but that is not the case. Jesus was not born at Christmas either, but at the beginning of our time on October 16.", Latvala explains. The erroneous information comes from the decision of the church assembly, in which the date of Jesus' birth was calculated 9 months after the date of Mary's revelation on March 25, "Latvala explains.

Written prophecy information has been dictated to enlightened people in the past. In the 18th century, for example, Sweden was influenced by the mystic Emanuel Swedenborg, whose number of prophetic texts on Bible interpretations is very extensive. In the 16th century, the Spanish John the Cross wrote, among other things, the dictation of his famous work Dark Night. There were several books by prophets in the 13th and 14th centuries, including the Spanish Ramon Llull and the German Master Echart. In the 12th century, the German mysticist Hildegard Bingen, who is also recognized as the founder of gynecology.

Grace higher than the Prophet is given only to the Holy Man, who has not only knowledge but also the grace of the Healer. "There are only such people once in 2,000 years," Latvala points out. "Then the world is out of Love. God raises the Healer so that people can understand that God is still with people, and that Truth is not altered by any belief, doubt, or denial for anything else."
